Hear Ye, Hear Ye

To celebrate this season of good tidings and peace, our most gracious lord King Henry announces the coming of his twenty-seventh Madrigal Dinner. The King extends to all his loyal gentry — landed or not — an invitation to join him for a yuletide banquet of fine food, good cheer and hearty merriment at the Claire Trevor Theatre.

Whilst their spirits thus are gently moved, the guests shall dine upon sumptuous cuisine prepared by King Henry's own private chefs. Surrounded by the glorious sounds, lavish costumes and spritely dances of the 16th Century, His Majesty's guests become part of the pageantry, history and celebration of the court of Henry Tudor, King of England.

The castle gates open three quarters of an hour before the festivities begin. Guests are advised to arrive in good time so as to be seated when His Majesty's processional begins. Members of the audience will be greeted by His Royal Highness during the festivities, therefore the King requests appropriate royal attire to include Renaissance flavor if desired.

Seating Arrangements

Seats in the King's Banquet Hall are assigned in the order payment is received.

Nobility Seating - Constitute the vast majority of seats in the Banquet Hall. There are no impediments in the Hall and these are all excellent seats.

Gentry Seating - Seating area located behind Nobility Seating. The show, food and attention given to you and your guests are identical.

King's Table - The finest tables in the Hall, seating eight personages each and situated close to the Royal Court. These are limited in number and must be purchased for a party of eight.

Baron's Table - One table per evening seating eight nobles in a private corner of the Hall. Festive Heraldic Robe provided for Baron plus your own page in attendance! Must be purchased for a party of eight.
