

1) In this section, provide representative samples of original creative work in the form of scores, recordings, or video documentation. The format should be a link or links that will allow us to access them online (via a personal website or a service such as Google Drive, Dropbox, etc.).

2) In this section, provide one video of at least ten (10) minutes (but not much longer) that shows your performance skills on your main instrument(s). The format should be a link or links that will allow us to access them online (via a personal website or a service such as Google Drive, Dropbox, etc.).

- If an item submitted as part of your representative sample of works (i.e., in section 1 above) contains at least 10 minutes of video in which you perform, and that video adequately demonstrates the range of your performance skills, then additional video documentation is not necessary.
- It is helpful for the department's application review committee if all videos are shared via one of the popular hosting platforms (e.g. YouTube, Vimeo, etc.).

3) In this section, provide a curated playlist of your recordings:

- The playlist serves as a way to better understand interests and strengths from the applicant's perspective. It does not replace, and is not a substitute for, the representative samples of original creative work required in section 1 above.
- What to include:
  - The playlist may consist of any number of pieces, and can be excerpts of works.
  - If an excerpt, indicate start and end times.
  - If there is a score available for a piece, please indicate so.
  - Organize in order of relevance, with most relevant at the top of the list.
  - DO NOT include the 10 minute video from section 2 above. The video showing your performance skills on your main instrument(s) should not be an item in this playlist.
- Duration:
  - The total duration of the playlist should not be longer than fifteen (15) minutes.

4) In this section, provide a brief one-paragraph written response to the following: Many applicants seek the PhD to enable an academic career. We ask that you please describe briefly any non-academic career paths you can envision for yourself after completing the degree, and how you think your work in the ICIT PhD program could prepare you for them.
